

SIX GREAT CELEBRITY HAIRCUTS TO STEAL

InStyle

Celebrity + Lifestyle + Beauty +

Meg Ryan's winning v

Catherine Zeta-Jones

On Beauty, Babies & Love

Spring's Freshest Makeup

Big-Night Glamour

The Hottest Dresses, Bags, Shoes

10 Oscar Winners

GO

APRIL 2000
$3.50US $4.95CAN
70989 10645

rock of ages

Grammys 2000: Proof that you're never too old to win—and party-hop

GRAMMYS "Could this venue be any bigger?" emcee Rosie O'Donnell shouted to the 14,000 audience members at L.A.'s Staples Center. The same could have been asked of the many bashes following the 42nd Annual Grammy Awards—much like the ceremony itself, they were lavish showcases for party-hoppers of all ages, from 19-year-old Christina Aguilera to veteran guitar god Carlos Santana. "It's going to be a late night," predicted Ricky Martin. (Fortunately, performers and presenters received Tumi duffel bags packed with, among other practical luxury goods, an electric toothbrush, pajamas and a gift certificate for a facial.) The National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences' after-party at the Biltmore Hotel had serious competition: Warner Music Group rented out the Dorothy Distinctive Assets produced the gift bags for the 42nd Annual GRAMMY® Awards.